Francophonie

Art, solidarity, communication

Nice, France

10 months: beginning of march 2019 – end of december 2019

The hosting organisation:

Francophonie is offering training courses for teachers of French language who want to add an intercultural and innovative axis to their teaching.

Set up and deep-rooted in Nice, in the south of France, Francophonie benefits from a network of partners and local and regional public and private organisations. Francophonie is sharing, is the will to gather people around projects animated by simple yet important values like cooperation, openness and solidarity.

The organisation hosts the “Universités d’été de Francophonie” which welcomes over 70 nationalities. Francophonie offers a place for teachers from different origins to share their culture, gastronomie, art, knowledge, to improve their skills and encourage solidarity. Indeed, one specificity of Francophonie is that almost half of the participants to their teacher training course sessions received scholarships to do so.

Francophonie is also an online community that has for goal to promote the French language and to connect cultures via the French language.
